INSTRUCTIONS

When a new Grave is to be opened, consult the book for location on the lot detail page, then have the same location in the lot in the cemetery.

Draw in Red, the grave size, on the lot in the book, in the exact location according to measurement, as it is in the cemetery.

Write in the name of the person buried and the date of death, or year of birth and death.

Enter this name in the Index, giving the lot number.

When a new lot is taken, write the owner's name at the top of the lot page and give the number of this lot.

Then enter the name in the list of Lot Owners, and also in the index, giving the lot number.

Draw this lot in ink.

The graves, drawn in red, can be indicated as about 7 x 3 ft. for adults and smaller for babies and young children.

The back of the lot pages are reserved for the inscriptions on the gravestones.

Other notes or data can be written anywhere on the page or on a new page as suits the bookkeepers needs.

The lot owners and names of persons buried should be entered in the index.

Enter the women under their married name and also under their maiden name if given.

Underline the lot owner's name

These lots are drawn to a scale of approximately 1/4 inch to 1 foot, or the distance between each blue line representing 1 foot.

A scale rule is provided, in a pocket for convenience in measuring.

EXHIBIT 107

When a new name is to be entered, normally the name is inserted on the last blank page. This page is inserted in the list in the following manner.
